Premier of New South Wales

NSW MODERN SLAVERY ACT 2018 SHOULD COME INTO FORCE

Dear Premier Berejiklian,

We, the under-signed 76 organisations, representatives and 40 individuals, urge you as leader of the Government of NSW to expedite the passage of this Act so that it can be brought into force on 1 January 2021, as recommended by the Inquiry Report submitted by the Standing Committee on Social Issues on 25 March 2020.

Bringing the Act into effect on 1 January 2021 represents an avoidable delay of two and a half years since the original Act was passed and assented. In that time, hundreds of thousands if not millions of people, both here in Australia and internationally, will have been deceived into a life of slavery. It is imperative that the Act is not delayed any longer.

The Standing Committee recognises that the NSW Modern Slavery Act is an important addition to the Commonwealth Act. This legislation positions NSW as a world leader in addressing modern slavery and in the wake of COVID-19 should inform your Government's job creation initiatives to create better working conditions and prevent the scourge of modern slavery here and overseas. The Inquiry's recommendations have received broad support, and there appears to be no reason why the legislative amendments cannot be drafted as a matter of urgency and brought before the Legislative Council and Assembly without further delay.

Research is clear that with more people out of work, more people will be prepared or pressured to accept lower workplace standards. Employers will have more bargaining power over workers. Exploitation in supply chains for goods and services is expected to rise exponentially, both here in Australia and overseas, exacerbated by freedom of movement restrictions aimed at reducing the spread of the virus, which may provide cover for some to exploit and bond people.

Supply chains are not only about goods and services. They are about people. It is our moral duty to demonstrate compassion and our legal duty to protect people across the globe, especially with respect to the supply chains from which Australians benefit. With the COVID-19 pandemic increasing job insecurity, fear and vulnerabilities, a significant number of people will invariably be subjected to a degradation of their rights.

Your government has the ability to make significant advancement in human rights during the COVID-19 pandemic by bringing this legislation into force and working closely with Australian businesses to reduce and prevent modern slavery risks, and to be increasingly transparent about their supply chains.

If the State of NSW is serious about its commitment to ending modern slavery, the NSW Modern Slavery Act must be enforced as a matter of urgency.

We look forward to your prompt response and confirmation of a timeframe. Please reply to carolyn.kitto@beslaveryfree.com.

Yours faithfully,
