Biographical information

Fiona lives in Melbourne's eastern suburbs with her husband (a teacher), three of their four children (now aged 22 to 16), and a boarder. After eight years on staff at St Jude's, Carlton, Fiona is currently working as the Catering Manager at St Andrew's Hall, the CMS missionary training college in inner-city Melbourne.

She also serves on a number of Anglican committees, including Melbourne's Archbishop-in-

Council (since 2013), the Gender Quotas Committee in Melbourne Diocese, Standing Committee of General Synod, and the Gafcon Australia Board. She is a long-term member of both CMS (and a CMS missionary kid!) and EFAC.

Fiona enjoys cycling, reading a wide variety of books, playing Scrabble, and having people around to meals.
