

IAN DALLAS

GENERAL SYNOD PROFILE

I am a lawyer, now retired from practice. I established a personal injury law firm in Bendigo, in regional Victoria, which I ran for over 20 years. In more recent times I have acted for survivors of sexual assault in damages claims, which has taught me a great deal about the egregious impact on children and adults of the failures by institutions in this area.

I have been Chancellor of the Diocese of Bendigo for almost 20 years. I have served on the Church Law Commission, and as chair of the Episcopal Standards Commission.

This is my sixth General Synod.
